

Career Opportunities

Those prepared in emergency/disaster management are typically employed in government agencies at the federal, state and local levels and by business and industry in preparing plans and procedures for avoidance of and in preparation for and recovery from natural disasters, accidents and/or terrorist attacks.

FEMA is striving to become the employer of choice for high-quality individuals looking for an environment that fosters innovation, rewards performance and creativity and provides challenge on a routine basis. Individuals interested in becoming part of a well-skilled, knowledgeable, high-performance work force that reflects the diversity of our nation should review the employment opportunities there.

DID YOU KNOW?

Emergency management and disaster recovery are predicted to become growing sectors in the United States. According to FEMA data and private sector sources, the emergency management industry will employ 1.6 million people and spend $65 billion on wages alone by 2012.

Emergency/Disaster Management Certificate Program

CCri COMMUNITY COLLEGE
OF RHODE ISLAND

COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF RHODE ISLAND

Through its program in Emergency/ Disaster Management, the Community College of Rhode Island offers a certificate in Emergency/Disaster Management.

This program is open to all who have an interest in understanding the causes of natural and human-initiated disasters and emergency situations, planning for their avoidance, and responding to and recovering from their effects.

About the Program

The emergency/disaster management program is based upon the FEMA Emergency Management Institute for Higher Education Project criteria. This field is fast and ever growing, including opportunities for individuals employed in varied capacities. The program focuses on the needs of the general community, with a specific focus of providing an emergency disaster management knowledge base to individuals in many fields.

The program is designed to enhance the skills and knowledge of those such as emergency management personnel, police officers, firefighters, emergency medical technicians, health care workers, businesspeople, security personnel, risk managers and others in the principles of emergency/disaster management.
