

Dr. Jennifer S Jackson, DAOM, MSOM, LMT ~ Acupuncturist, Licensed Massage Therapist, CranioSacral Therapy Practitioner

Dr. Jennifer S Jackson graduated from Southwest Acupuncture College (SWAC) in December of 2011 with a Masters of Oriental Medicine. During her time at SWAC, Dr. Jackson had the privilege to study with Dr. Ehrland Truitt, DOM. Here, she learned the gentle, yet powerful form of Traditional Japanese Hari-Style Acupuncture.

As a student at SWAC, Dr. Jackson had the honor of traveling with Dr. Truitt and Master Acupuncturist T. Koei Kuwahara, L.Ac to Osaka, Japan, where she spent a week studying with their lineage of master acupuncturists. During this trip, she was introduced to and had the privilege to study with Masanori Tanioka Sensei, one of the leading acupuncturists of Pediatric (ShoniHari) treatments in the world. In April 2015, Dr. Jackson made a second trip to Japan with Master Acupuncturist Kuwahara to expand her studies of Meridian Therapy and Pediatric (ShoniHari) treatment. Dr. Jackson continues her studies of Hari-Style Traditional Acupuncture and Pediatric (Shonihari) Acupuncture with Master Acupuncturist Kuwahara in Watertown, MA.

Prior to her studies at Southwest Acupuncture College, Dr. Jackson studied Massage Therapy at the Community College of Rhode Island, and has over 17 years' experience in that field. Over the 17 years, Dr. Jackson has studied various massage styles and body work. Her heart and hands were drawn to (and love practicing!) Craniosacral Therapy. She studied Craniosacral Therapy with the Upledger Institute in the beginning of 2007.

Dr. Jackson served as the Vice-President of the Boston Hari Society from 2013 - 2015. She served as President of the Boston Hari Society from 2015 - 2017. During her timing serving in these positions, Dr. Jackson was able to facilitate a number of 6 month Hari Series in Watertown, MA.